New Front Sight for Glock Pistols

--by Paul Baumgardner, Glock Armorer

One of the only bad things on a Glock pistol has always been the plastic sights. The front sight could be swept off the gun by a presentation from a holster or even pulling on the sight with fingers. And the rear sight was so big that it did not allow for a good sight picture in combination with the front dot sight.

Well, part of that trouble has been resolved.

Glock has a new front sight that is shipping.

The old front sight had two legs that went into the front sight opening on the slide and a plastic insert pressed the legs open and kept it held to the slide. That was okay -- but this is better. Now Glock has introduced a new front sight that uses a screw that keeps the front sight attached to the slide. The screw nut is a 3/16th size which is the same as what is used on Trijicon, Meprolight, Warren Tactical and many other after market metal sights for the Glock pistol. The shape of the sight is larger and should wear better in and out of a holster. The screw is metal, but the threads on the sight are plastic so Loctite will only help a little. This is a nice addition to the Glock family. The only other great fix would be for the front sight to be metal. A metal front sight is a current option from Glock.

Both Glock and ARO-TEK make a tool for removing the nut.

AR-15 Armorer Course

A comprehensive two day AR-15 armorer course is being offered by Tiger Valley and Advanced Gunworks on August 22 and 23. The instructor is David Gregor, whose 25 years of gunsmithing includes service with the FBI's Hostage Rescue Team and U.S. Navy SEAL Team Six as Master Gunsmith.

Students will bring their own weapons and learn weapons operation, assembly/disassembly, troubleshooting, upgrades, and the technical knowledge required to make the most out of the weapon system. Students will have the opportunity to purchase an armorer toolkit as well as a spare parts package.

This course is a unique training opportunity and space is limited. It is open to twenty students and six spots are still available. Make payment by sending a check to our Garland office address listed at the bottom of this newsletter or via
