February Night Fighting Class

On February 12th and 13th Tiger Valley is offering a special night fighting class at the Waco facility. Gain the skills necessary to deal with the low light situations.

This class will cover using a rifle and pistol in low light conditions. Target engagements will be from contact to 200 yards on both stationary and moving targets. Those attending should have basic weapons handling abilities through Tiger Valley or some other formal school. This is a fast paced class that requires shooter to be able to move, shoot and think and communicate. We will cover target engagement as well as situational and judgmental shooting during the live fire portion. Those attending should have weapons mounted lights on long guns and either weapons mounted or hand held for the pistol. Shooters should bring 450 rounds for both weapons systems.

The cost is $350 or $325 if purchased 14 days in advance. The event runs at the Waco facility. The class starts Friday night at 5:00 PM and ends at 12:00 midnight. Saturday class starts also at 5:00 PM and ends at 12:00 midnight. Register by visiting www.tigervalley.com and selecting the "store" tab.

Report from December's Free Long Range Clinic

Sixty seven shooters braved cold and damp conditions to participate in Tiger Valley's Christmas Long Range Clinic, a free event we conducted on December 12th.

Shooters started on the two hundred line, working their way back to eight hundred. Every shot taken was marked and presented to the shooter for evaluation and feedback with our pit service. Moving targets added to the challenge, especially as distances increased.

Wind conditions were extremely mild. This made for much easier shooting, as participants could concentrate on basics without worrying about the challenging task of doping for the wind. Shooter's backgrounds varied widely in experience, and a variety of law enforcement officers joined what was mostly an armed citizen group.

The hot meal at the end of the cold day proved a big hit and gave all a chance to unwind before heading home. Many thanks to all who made it out to this event!
